

Letter of Agreement

August 07, 2007

American Eagle Airlines and Epic Aviation have formed an alliance with respect to American Eagle's pilot recruitment and interviewing policy.

American Eagle recognizes the quality of training Epic Aviation provides and the airline-ready pilots the program produces. American Eagle Airlines agrees to guarantee interviews, provided American Eagle Airlines is interviewing, to pilots graduating from Epic Aviation who meet the following requirements:

- Completion of the First Officer Program
- A letter of recommendation from the President
- Attain a minimum of the following FAA Certificates and Ratings:
  - FAA First Class Medical Certificate with No Waivers
  - Commercial Certificate
  - Instrument and Multi-Engine Ratings
- 600 Hours total flight time
- 100 Hours multi-engine time (Does not include hours of FFS or Simulator)

Applicants who interview with American Eagle Airlines under this Agreement must meet the same standards for employment as other candidates of American Eagle Airlines. Each applicant must pass all phases of the interview, including a human resources interview, technical interview; simulator evaluation, Captain's Board Review and submit to a company physical.

Applicants who successfully complete American Eagle Airline's Interview process may be offered employment based on American Eagle's hiring needs at the time of the interview. Although American Eagle forecasts pilot hiring to be consistent for the foreseeable future, economic conditions can change hiring requirements. American Eagle Airlines and Epic Aviation will maintain close coordination on current overall trends in training and the progress of from Epic Aviation graduates.

American Eagle Airlines and Epic Aviation have the right to terminate this Agreement at any time without restriction. Epic Aviation may publicize this Agreement, but may not use the American Eagle logo without written permission. American Eagle is very pleased about this alliance and looks forward to a long and successful relationship with Epic Aviation.
